Benefits will be awarded based on the individual household's energy bill.

The maximum allowable eligibility amount is $425.00 unless otherwise directed by the Children and Families Director and/or the Administrative Director of the Port Gamble S'Klallam Tribe. (Such as the extraordinary medical heating circumstances described in crisis assistance.)

Those households with the very lowest income are assisted at 100% of the bill submitted up to the allotment maximum. These households include eligible elder households and households where the only income is from SSI disability or needy TANF households.

For all other eligible households when a "Heating Assistance" energy bill is submitted to the tribal energy assistance office for payment only 75% of the bill will be paid.

The Port Gamble S'Klallam Tribe intends to use 60% of Washington State's FFY2015 Median Income. Household gross income may not exceed the guideline amounts.
